

Singleton of Glendullan 12 Year Old Single Malt Scotch Whisky

Oak, honey, coconut, barley, and fruit on the nose – apples, pear, and fresh peaches, too. Some green wood, dried white rice, and star anise, too. The palate is lightly sweet, with rich malt leading into a dense, earthy finish which grows with toffee, green apple, and baking spices. It dries out nicely to barley and oak. The barley is nice, and I like that it is central. Very pleasant - one for those who like lighter style Scotch whiskies which are just easy to drink.
